

COFFER-MILLER PLAYERS WILL APPEAR TODAY

CHILDREN'S FAVORITE BILLED FOR MATINEE.

Greek Satire, "The Birds" Will Be Featured By Company Friday Night.

The Coffe-Miller Players, popular interpreters of good comedy, will appear here tonight and tomorrow in three extensive productions featuring Jess Coffe and Martha Miller.

A matinee of particular interest to children will be given in the education building auditorium at the College this afternoon. The play, "Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves," is one of the company's most popular productions this season.

Tonight, the players will present "A Marriage of Convenience," and Friday night Aristophanes' Greek farce, "The Birds," will be played.

"The Birds," a famous old farce, was written by Aristophanes nearly 2000 years ago. However, this need not frighten away the theater goer who likes his plays to be scenes from modern life. To the contrary, he will see modern life, especially current social and political situations displayed to some advantage, in fact a rather brilliant searchlight played upon it, revealing it in some of its most humorous aspects. And there is not an ancient thing in the comedy, unless it is the costumes, and even they take on a modernism as, for instance, in the last scene where Hercules, the god of strength, comes dressed like a modern strong man, a la vaudeville, to sue for peace.

Strange as it may seem, the very conditions that Aristophanes poked fun at back there in Athens are as much a matter of comment to-day as then.

Of course, the play as Aristophanes writes it would hardly do for a modern audience, but the adapters have made clever re-arrangements, lines altered, allusions added, but still not doing much damage to the original. In all, it is a most unusual evening's entertainment. Most of the characters are birds. The scene is laid midway between heaven and earth, which is in the mythical kingdom of the birds.

The movies have long taken old stories and revised them with success, and there is no reason why Aristophanes' "The Birds" with new names, new feathers, even new tales, would not meet with the approval of the staid theater goer who likes his drama "straight."

Two politicians, Wiseguyerson and Dumbelides, so goes the story, decide to leave the city where they are living because of its taxation, political and financial disorders, to say nothing of the racket. They are led to the kingdom of the birds, a spot half-way between heaven and earth. Wiseguyerson, who is a clever politician, uses his oratorical ability and political strategy to advantage and so becomes master of the republic. He tells the birds that they are the real rulers of the air, therefore of the world. They must subdue the gods.

The plan by which this is accomplished is that a city is built in the heavens over Athens so that smoke ascending from Athens to the gods is intercepted. Since the gods are supposed to be nourished by smoke they are without it and helpless. They descend, protesting and outraged, to the birds. They find that they are helpless before Wiseguyerson. The story goes on that when the birds have overthrown the gods, men from the earth appear, parasites, to share in the spoils. Wiseguyerson is clever enough to see through this and slaps them all in a rage, and he himself marries Jove's daughter. The comedy is staged in the most original fashion. The bird costumes and the magnificent get-up of the gods, Neptune and Hercules, elicit great praise for the director's unusual presentation.

Paving on Highway to Amarillo Starts April 15—Dyatt

Resident Engineer A. E. Dyatt returned early this week from Austin, where he attended a session of the state highway commission at which contracts were let for paving the Canyon to Amarillo highway.

Mr. Dyatt said he was well pleased with the record of the Ben F. Flynn construction company, successful bidder, and expected fast work and an excellent type of construction.

Shipments of material on the 13.73-miles project will begin within the next few weeks, Mr. Dyatt said, but actual construction is delayed until April 15 by terms of the contract. The contractor has 120 working days in which to complete the job.

Plans for Highway 33 south of Canyon to Happy now are at the state highway department offices, where means of improving this road are under consideration.

Miss Whittenberg and R. G. Windsor Married Sunday

Simply and impressively at the six o'clock hour Sunday evening Miss Nannie Mae Whittenberg of this city and Mr. Richard George Windsor of Amarillo were married at the Whittenberg home of this city on Sixth Avenue.

The double ring ceremony was read by Dr. Yates, minister of the First Baptist Church of Amarillo. Soft candle light and a profusion of cut and pot flowers gracing an improvised altar greeted the bride party. The bride's maid of honor was her sister, Georgia Whittenberg. Mr. Windsor, brother of the groom, of Wichita Falls was the best man.

Gowned in pure white the bride was made more charming than ever before. An arm bouquet of lilies of the valley, orchids, and white rosebuds enhanced the beauty of the scene.

Only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom and a few friends witnessed the ceremony.

Mrs. Windsor is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Whittenberg, pioneers of West Texas. She was a junior at W. T. S. T. C. at the time of her withdrawal. While a student in the college her work in the field of dramatic art has been worthy of notice.

The groom is the son of Mr. W. G. Windsor of Amarillo. Mr. Windsor is in the contracting business in that city. He was a student here last quarter.

The couple left immediately for a short honeymoon trip after which they will return to make their home in Amarillo for the time being.

The arrests, made by sheriff's officers and city police, came as a climax to a series of petty thefts which have been reported in widely scattered parts of town during the last few months.

All boys will be tried in Judge B. F. Fronabarger's juvenile court.

Miss Gladys Lowry Married to Glen Phillips Saturday

Miss Gladys Lowry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Lowry of Canyon, was united in marriage to Glen W. Phillips of Darrouzett Saturday, February 23, at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. C. E. Jameson, pastor of the Methodist Church officiated.

The impressive ring ceremony was said in front of an improvised altar banked with rose buds and pot plants. The wedding party entered to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March played by Melba Stocker of Miami, a student here.

The bride attendants were Hazel Lowry, Elmer Wooten, Agnes Moore, De Lowry, all of Canyon.

The bride was beautiful in an ensemble of powder blue georgette and carried an arm bouquet of rose buds.

MANY RELICS ARE GIVEN TO HISTORY BODY

HALEY MAKES TRIP TO NORTH PLAINS TOWNS.

Farming Implements, Documents, And Indian Relics Form Collection.

A recent trip made to the North Plains by J. Evetts Haley, has yielded valuable material for the Panhandle Plains Historical society with headquarters here. The towns of Pampa, Canadian, Miami, Spearman and Higgins were visited.

Dr. R. Goettsche of Higgins presented an old "Kentucky" rifle, made at Meriden, Conn., in 1868, and valuable Indian relics, including a stone tomahawk, rubbing stone, metate and very heavy wedge shaped whetstone, presumably used by the Indians in sharpening their tools.

Twelve-year-old Harley Goettsche and Pete Peterson presented a huge jaw bone of a mastodon, and L. R. Goettsche sent a piece of petrified turtle shell nearly an inch thick, and horns, tusks, teeth and vertebrae of the giant rhinoceros which roamed the North Plains region long before the time of written history.

French Arrington sent to the museum an unusually large buffalo robe which was presented to his father, Captain Arrington, many years ago. A branding iron used on the old Rocking Chair ranch was added to the collection of irons, the gift of Mr. Arrington.

Sterling Williams of Pampa and Otto Studer of Canadian added an old shotgun and a deer head to the arms and mounted animal collections, and H. A. McDonald sent in a cap and ball shot found while street improvements were recently being made in Pampa. Mr. McDonald also donated a hand wrought door hinge, brought from old Fort Elliott.

In these days of tractors and combines, the tools of 75 years ago take on strange interest. B. C. Holt of Spearman has added to the collection of pioneer relics a hand made cane knife, the blade short and slightly curved but sawlike, and the handle about twenty-two inches long; a reaper's knife much like the present day lawn sickle, which was used in cutting wheat seventy-five years ago, when Missouri was far west. With these were old time log hooks and a weeding hoe, home-made and more than fifty years old.

A home made mane and tail come whittled out by E. F. True of Amarillo when he worked on the IX ranch in 1885, a brand-new book used by John Arnot of Amarillo, and the autographed photograph of the German sisters who were captured by the Indians during the early days of white occupation of the Panhandle, and photographs of rangers, Cheyenne scouts and himself presented by "Dick" Russell of Canadian, were other materials brought in from the trip.

Mike C. Turner, visiting Rotarian from Dallas, told Canyon members of the plans Dallas is making for entertaining the convention of Rotary International there next May.

Rotary itself is to expend about $50,000 on the big convention, Turner said, and Dallas will spend other thousands in entertaining the delegates, who will come from more than a dozen countries.

Other guests of the club were, B. F. Anderson, W. L. Young, Ed Enoch, Turner Broom, Ted George and Neil S. Griggs, Amarillo; J. W. Reid, and H. J. Sanderson. Neil Griggs also made a short talk.

J. L. McReynolds, Pioneer Resident, Died Early Today

J. L. McReynolds, pioneer resident of Canyon, died in a hospital at Wichita Falls this morning, according to advices received here.

Mr. McReynolds was born in 1862 at Sedalia, Mo. He had lived in Canyon for more than 25 years, coming here in the early ranching days and taking a major part in the pioneer life of the city.

Early Dutton, M. B. Welch, and Paul Zinc, of Panhandle were in Canyon Wednesday on business.

Tennis players are about the only kind of racketeers who go to court about it.

BUFFS BEATEN IN FIRST GAME AT BROWNWOOD

HILL BILLIES OFFENSE NETS 33 TO 27 VICTORY.

Mac Miller, Daniel Baker Ace, Leads Scoring With 14 Points.—Crump Gets 10.

BROWNWOOD, Tex., Feb. 28.—(Special)—A Daniel Baker basketball team that either "is lucky or mighty good" sank enough long shots here last night to blast the hopes of the champion West Texas Buffaloes for another conference trophy. Daniel Baker took a 6-point lead early in the last period and held it throughout, winning 33-27.

Despite the work of Elvis Ward and Pat Gerald, popularly acclaimed as leading guards of the association, the Hillbillies forwards, Miller and Chambers, proved the undoing of the Buffaloes.

Cleat Crump, Buffalo captain on the last road trip of his college career, played an excellent defensive game, but failed to find the basket with his accustomed regularity. Newman, Crump's running mate, appeared nervous on the court, but played a great game.

Delbert Lowes, rangy Canyon center, and Ward, fast guard, looked best for the Buffaloes, aiding greatly in smashing the delayed defensive of the Hillbillies and carrying the game to the Brownwood crew consistently.

Mac Miller, Billy ace, was leading scorer with 14 points. Crump of the Buffaloes was next with 10 points and M. Chambers of the Hillbillies earned 8 points.

It was a weird last half with the Billies leading by a slender six-point margin, and the Buffaloes trying to make the rival crew unco. The Buffaloes lost their 15-to-13 lead soon after the period opened, and were unable to regain it despite brilliant work.

The visitors missed many shots in the closing minutes of play.

Last night's victory places the Billies in line for the 1929 championship.

Canyon High Is Eliminated From Tournament Early

With a well balanced team boasting of two stars, the Perryton High School Rangers waded through all opposition to cop the Annual Meet of basketball teams of District One, Texas Interscholastic League here Friday and Saturday. McLean also went to the finals with apparent ease.

When the two teams met for the championship on Saturday afternoon what a battle it was. A see-saw affair from beginning to end which the Perryton boys finally won by a score of 37 to 32. McLean was a team composed of three stars. Far and away the greatest player of the meet was Tip Windom, forward on the McLean team. This lad in four games scored a total of 83 points!

The meet was the fastest held in this district in years, and it will not be surprising should the Perryton boys go a long way in the State race. Their team is a well oiled machine which functions without flash but with deadly accuracy and precision. In addition to being a well coached aggregation the squad has two players capable of being on any high school team. These players are Peery, forward, and Douglas, guard. In the four games which the Rangers played Peery made a total of 65 points. In the same number of games, Douglas, playing guard, made 26 points and played a whale of a game on the defense in every contest.

The big disappointment of the tourney was Canyon High School Eagles. The team was doped to win the meet, but for the first time in history was eliminated in its very first start by the powerful Perryton five.

Jack Sisco, who refereed the meet, did an excellent job of it from start to finish, and his work drew a great deal of favorable comment.

OUR NEW PRESIDENT

When Herbert Hoover takes the oath of office on March 4, his voice will be heard throughout the world.

His inaugural address will reach not only millions of listeners in the United States, but also other millions of listeners in foreign countries.

The radio has advanced to an almost unbelievable extent. Recently programs from London were heard in New York with absolute clarity. Now this progress makes it possible for not only America, but also other nations of the world, to hear the voice of Hoover as he dedicates himself to the leadership of the American people.

How fitting that this should be so! For his activities during the distressful times of war in foreign lands have endeared him to the entire civilized world, his election was hailed with enthusiasm in messages from many countries—the world will be able to hear his first words as he assumes the highest office of his country.

The very thought thrills one—the world has moved forward indeed! Think of George Washington's inaugural address—his words were not known for days after the event by persons within a narrow radius, they were not heard save by those who were within the range of his voice. Today, a man in the remotest corner of the land may be "present" at the important ceremony simply by turning on a dial.

A BRAVE MAN DEAD
INHERITED GENEROSITY
HUMAN SACRIFICES
USEFUL WARNINGS

Those that pity themselves because their health is "not quite what it ought to be" may consider Baron von Huenefeld, who died on the operating table, undergoing his thirteenth operation for an incurable disease of the stomach that had afflicted him for years.

Suffering hopelessly, knowing that he could not live long and must endure many operations, von Huenefeld planned and carried out the German-Irish flight across the Atlantic Ocean.

Such courage and will power should make others ashamed to complain.

J. Pierpont Morgan gives New York Hospital two buildings worth $2,000,000. Giving seems to be inherited, as illustrated also in the case of the Rockefeller.

Mr. Morgan's father gave to New York one of its finest institutions, a great lying-in hospital.

Serious rioting in India is caused by a report that Mohammedans kidnapped Hindu children and sacrificed them in connection with the construction of a new bridge. The report probably is not true.

Once important works were usually accompanied by human sacrifices. Somebody was killed and buried under the corner of a new building. A child or adult was often killed and buried in a shallow hole in a field newly planted.

Knowing nothing about fertilizer they observed with "religious awe" that the grass grew greener where the corpse was buried.

Madame Bella Pollack died in Rumania, aged 119, leaving twenty-one children, the oldest eighty-five, and a fiancé who would have been her third husband. Madame Pollack ate two and one half pounds of black bread and a pound of sugar every day, and was never ill until her last illness.

Men often live long when the doctor tells them that they will soon die. A warning makes them careful. James Melrose, twice Lord Mayor of York, England, is dead, aged one hundred. Insurance companies refused him as a bad risk seventy years ago.

The famous Luigi Cornaro became interested in his health when doctors told him at forty that he must soon die. He ate only twelve ounces of solid food, drank fifteen ounces of red wine daily, died at one hundred and four.

Lindbergh on his way from Miami to Panama, "hopped off" on his twenty-seventh birthday.

Only twenty-seven and his name is known wherever men are civilized.

Only twenty-seven, and already he has conquered the ocean, and, what is more important the respect of every man and woman.

This young American's history makes millions of others feel as Caesar did when he read the life of Alexander the Great and suddenly burst into tears, realizing that Alexander had conquered the world when he was younger than Caesar was then.

"Herbert Hoover may find important aviation work for Lindbergh." Nothing more probable. An engineer knows that somebody who knows how to do what you want done is valuable.

Mr. Hoover understands the engineering part of flying and all its importance, from mail carrying to national defense.

Colonel Lindbergh understands the flying part. A fine combination. Many hats would go up in the air if young Lindbergh were put by Mr. Hoover at the head of a separate department for national air defense.

PERSONALITY IN BATHROOMS

Almost as epochal as the invention of built-in plumbing has been the awakening of color in bathrooms. The modern bathroom is less bleak than its bleached white ancestors, and it frequently has that indefinable something which decorators call "personality."

The general decorative plan of a bathroom should depend upon personal preferences and immediate necessities.

One ingenious mother transformed the family bathroom for the purpose of overcoming her two little sons' disinclination to the performance of regular ablutions. Her method consisted of evolving a background of hard light green enamel on which a frieze of rollicking dogs and puppies was placed. For curtains she chose waterproof percale on which the small pattern proved to be tumbling puppies. The rug sported puppy designs, and dogs also appeared on the scrubbing brushes. Everywhere the boys glanced they saw reminders of their pets, and the bathroom was transformed into a playground which they patronized with enthusiasm.

BIGGEST FOX FARM
BEGAN AS BOYS' HOBBY

The biggest fox farmers in the world are the six Fromm brothers of Hamburg, Wisconsin, and their business started twenty years ago as a schoolboy hobby. A report of their enterprise shows that they received last year at the annual fur auction in New York, a check for $1,021,071—the largest check ever passed in the fur industry. In addition to this check, they received an additional $267,000 at other auctions during the year, and the total revenue of their farms reached approximately $1,500,000.

Originally raisers of ginseng, another schoolboy hobby which still nets them a revenue of $225,000 yearly, they turned to farming silver fox while they were students in the University of Wisconsin.

PNEUMONIA

With all the vast progress in the science of medicine, we are forced to admit that the mortality rate in this terrible disease still continues high; a specific has not yet been discovered. A few common-sense observations at this time, should not be out of place.

The beginning of acute lobar pneumonia is almost invariably with a pronounced chill. It is at this time that an heroic attempt should be made to abort the disease. The effectual battle must be waged early—for it does not take long to be too late. Call your physician early. Better be safe than sorry; a few visits by a capable doctor, are many times cheaper than a funeral.

Meet the fever following the chill, with medicines which produce profuse sweating; literally "soak" the victim in perspiration. This reduces congestion of the lung by bringing the blood to the surface. Administer a good laxative as well; I tell my patient to drink all the water he can hold; the juice of four lemons in the first eighteen hours, is a good accompaniment. A big mustard plaster over the chest, at this stage, has earned its distinction for usefulness; later, it is too late. I am sure I have aborted many cases of pneumonia by the vigorous steps mentioned. Once the disease is established, your management and outlook are conjectural.

I care not what moralists may say, I have found the alcoholic stimulants of great value in the profound weakness of pneumonia, combined with nourishment, especially in aged cases. But the victory is more certain, if we attack before the disease is established.

FAVORITE SPORTS

Some years ago pigeon fanciers from St. Louis would send their racing homing birds to Quannah to be released at a certain hour and timed in their flight back to Oklahoma City and St. Louis. This fad has waned in popularity but a neighbor's boy by the purchase of a few pairs of homing pigeons brought the memory to us.

Football ranks first in America and the football of England ranks first there but to a Jock pigeon racing ranks first over there in novelty.

Can you imagine a runner in track suit dashing thru Glasgow, Scotland, and up Union he comes and then the street turns and he is racing up Argyle and further but the same thoro fare he is on. Sauciehill and he is near his goal. Thru the main streets of a city of thousands of people he runs. Then the Yank asks what that fool is doing racing about in athletic underwear and is answered with the crisp reply "Bird racing."

The birds are sent at a distance and when released at a certain time. When they hit their coop a number is taken from their leg and the owner races on foot to the registrar and there the winner of the combination pigeon and man race is determined.

Ships going south through St. Georges oftentimes offer a haven of rest to these racing birds and our own experience tells us that sometimes when these birds rest on a mast of the ships they finally end their travels in New York or San Francisco and the English owner wonders where his favorite bird could have gone.

Pigeons in this country are a pest but to many they are a means of livelihood and pleasure when properly taken care of in the city or country.

Pastor: "So God has sent you two more little brothers, Dolly." "Dolly: "Yes, and He knows where the money's coming from to keep them. I heard Daddy say so."

INTERPRETIVE

It was a masquerade. "Have you seen Thelma?" asked one of the guests when they met in the smoking room. "She's here as the Essence of Innocence."

"Is that what she's representing?" the other retorted in amazement. "I thought by the brevity of her costume that she came as the Spirit of Forgetfulness."

A MESSAGE TO HUSBANDS

about their wives!

Does your wife get out of sorts? Are there times when you must "handle her with gloves"? We men, with our minds full of our jobs or our business, are often prone to grumble and wonder, "Now what the Sam Hill's wrong," when maybe we could do something about it.

Maybe we ourselves are largely responsible for those dark moods. Maybe, if we look around, we can locate "the fly in the ointment."

How about the house? It is the place where a woman must spend the major part of her time. Naturally it must have much to do with her mental attitude. If it is old-fashioned, shabby and lacking in conveniences, a woman is certain to feel it. If it is modern, beautiful and convenient, its brightness will be reflected in the feminine frame of mind.

Think it over. Look at your wife, then look at your home. If you think you ought to get busy, we'll be glad to show you how easily and how reasonably a house can be modernized.

THE DESPERATE LOVER

Fifth Installment

WHAT HAPPENED BEFORE
Palermo is the scene. There an exile, Leonardo di Marioni, has come for love of Adrienne Cartuccio, who spurns him. He meets an Englishman, Lord St. Maurice, who falls in love with Adrienne on sight. Leonardo sees his sister Margharita, who tells him his love for Adrienne is hopeless. But he pleads with her to arrange an accidental meeting, to say farewell between Adrienne and him.

She consents. That night the Englishman is informed of an attempt being made to carry off Sigorina Cartuccio, and Margharita, who are walking by brigands employed by a rejected suitor on a lonely road. He rushes to the scene, and proves able to rescue the ladies.

Inflamed by the failure of his scheme, Leonardo sees Margharita who shows him she knows that he was instigator of the attempted attack. The Englishman now sees Adrienne often. The Englishman sitting in the hotel, finds a dagger at his feet. Looking up, he sees the Sicilian, and scents trouble.

"We sat here a week ago," recalls Leonardo, Lord St. Maurice nods. Leonardo and the Englishman quarrel. The Englishman at first refuses to accept a challenge to duel, then when the Italian slaps him consents. The two men face each other ready to fight to the death.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
It was a fair spot which their two seconds had chosen to stain with bloodshed. Close almost to their feet the blue waters of the Mediterranean, glistening in the early morning sunlight, broke in tiny, rippling waves upon the firm white sand. Inland was a semi-half his fortune for an earthquake to have come and swallowed up that merciless Sicilian.

Signor Pruccio had delayed the duel as long as he could, under the pretext of waiting for the doctor who had been instructed to follow them, but who had not yet arrived. Twice the Sicilian had urged that they should commence, and each time he had pleaded that they might wait for a few minutes longer. To enter upon a duel a l'outrance, save in the presence of a medical man, was a thing unheard of, he declared. But at last this respite was exhausted, for the opposing second, with a pleasant smile, had remarked that he himself was skilled in surgery, and would be happy to officiate should the necessity arise. There was no longer any excuse. Lord St. Maurice himself insisted upon the signal being given. Sadly therefore he prepared to give it. Already both men had fallen into position. The word trembled upon his lips.

A flock of sea-birds flew screaming over their heads, and he waited a moment until they should have passed. Then he raised his hand.

"Stop!"
The cry was a woman's. They all looked around. Only a few yards away from them stood Adrienne, her fair hair streaming loose in the morning breeze, and her gown torn and soiled. She had just issued from the sloping sight of the woman he loved championing his foe seemed to madden him.

"Out of my way!" he cried, grasping his sword firmly. "Lord St. Maurice, are you not weary of skulking behind a woman's petticoats? On guard! I say. On guard!"

She suddenly flung her hands above her head, and there was what seemed to be a miraculous increase in the little group. Three men in plain, dark clothes sprang from behind a gigantic boulder, and, in an instant, the Sicilian was seized from behind.

He looked around at his captors, pale and furious. They were strangers to him. As yet, he did not realize what had happened.

"What does this mean?" he cried furiously. "Who dares to lay hands upon me? We are on free ground!" She shook her head.

"Leonardo, you have brought this upon yourself," she said, firmly but compassionately. "You plotted to murder the man I love. I warned you that, to protect him, there was nothing which I would not dare. Only a moment ago I gave you another chance. One word from you and I would have thrown these papers into the sea," producing a packet from her bosom. "rather than have placed them where I do now."

A fourth man had strolled out of the aloe grove, smoking a long cigarette. Into his hands Adrienne had placed the little packet of letters, which he accepted with a low bow.

Even now the Sicilian felt bewildered; but as his eyes fell upon the fourth man he started and trembled violently, gazing at him as though fascinated.

"I do not understand!" he faltered.

The fourth man removed his cigarette from his teeth and produced a paper.

"Permit me to explain," he said politely. "I have here a warrant for your arrest, Count di Marioni, alias Leonardo di Cortegi, on two counts: first, that you, being an exile, have returned to Italian soil; and secondly on a further and separate charge of conspiracy against the Italian Government, in collusion with a secret society, calling themselves 'Members of the Order of the White Hyacinth.' The proofs of the latter conspiracy, which were wanting at your first trial have now been furnished."

He touched the little roll of papers which he had just received, and, with a bow, fell back. There was an ominous silence.

At the mention of his first name a deathlike pallor had swept in upon the Sicilian's face. His manner suddenly became quite quiet and free from excitement. But there was a look in his dark eyes more awful than had been his previous fury.

"You have done a brave thing indeed, Adrienne!" he said slowly. "You have saved your lover. You have betrayed the man who would have given his life to serve you. Listen to me! As I loved you before so do I hate you now! As my love for you in the past has governed my life, and brought me always to your side, so in the days to come shall my undying hate for you and for that man shape my actions and mold my life, and bring me over sea and land to the farthest corners of the earth to wreak my vengeance upon you. Be it ten, twenty, or thirty years, they keep me rotting in their prisons, the time will come when I shall be free again; and then beware! Search your memory for the legends of our race! Was ever a hate forgotten, or an oath broken? Hear me swear," he cried, raising his clasped hands above his head with a sudden passionate gesture, "by the sun, and the sky, and the sea, and the earth, I swear that, as they continue unchanged and unchanging, so shall my hate for you remain! Ah, you can take your lover's hand, traitress, and think to find protection there. But in your heart I read your fear. The day shall come when you shall kneel at my feet for mercy, and there shall be no mercy. Gentlemen, my sword. I am at your service."

PART TWO Twenty-five Years Later

For three days Count Leonardo di Marioni abode in his sitting-room at the Hotel Continental, living the life of a man in a dream. So far as the outside world was concerned, it was a complete case of suspended animation. Of all that passed around him he was only dimly conscious. The faces of his fellow creatures were strange to him. He had lost touch with the world, and the light of his reason was flickering; almost it seemed as though it would go out indeed, and leave him groping in the chaos of insanity. Mechanically he rose late in the morning, ate what was brought to him, or ordered what was suggested. All day long he sat in a sort of dreamless apathy, living still the life of the last five-and-twenty years of imprisonment, and finding no change, save that the chair in which he sat was softer, and the fire over which he stretched his withered palms was a new experience to him. There were things even which he missed in the freedom—if freedom it could be called. He missed the warm dancing sunlight which, day by day, had filled the shabby sitting-room of his confinement. He missed that patch of deep blue sky seen through his high, barred window, and the fragrant scents of the outside world which, day by day, had floated through it. He missed the kindly PROPER flues and flue connections are necessary for any kind of fire, gas, coal, wood, or oil. But the best flues in the world are no good if the chimneys they lead to are clogged.

DEFECTIVE chimneys and flues often cause fires. Having your chimneys cleaned out, therefore, is just as important as having flues in the first place.

circle of steep cliffs, at the base of which there were great bowlders of rock, fern-covered and with hyacinths of many colors growing out of the crevices, and lending a sweet fragrance to the fresh morning air. It was a spot shut off from the world, for the towering cliffs ran out into the sea on either side, completely enclosing the little cove. There was only one possible approach to it, save by boat, and that a difficult and tedious one, and, looking upward from the shore, hard to discover. But on the northward side the cliffs suddenly dropped, and in the cleft was a thick plantation of aloes, through which a winding path led down to the beach.

Perhaps of all the little group gathered down there to witness and take part in the coming tragedy, Signor Pruccio, Lord St. Maurice's second, was looking the most disturbed and anxious. His man, he knew, must fall, and an ugly sickening dread was in his heart. It was so like a murder. He pictured to himself that fair boyish face—and in the clear morning sunlight the young Englishman's face showed marvelously few signs of the night of agony through which he had passed—ghastly and livid, with the stamp of death upon the forehead, and the deep blue eyes glazed and dull. It was an awful thing, yet what could he do? What hope was there? Leonardo di Marioni he knew to be a famous swordsman; Lord St. Maurice had never fenced since he had left Eton, and scarcely remembered the positions. It was doubtful even whether he had ever held a rapier. But what Signor Pruccio feared most was the pale unflinching hate in the Sicilian's white face. He loathed it, and yet it fascinated him. He knew, alas! how easily, by one swift turn of the wrist, he would be able to pass his sword through the Englishman's body, mocking at his unskilled defense. He fancied that the could see the arms thrown up to heaven, the fixed, wild eyes, the red blood spurting out from the wound and staining the virgin earth; almost he fancied that he could hear the death-cry break from those agonized white lips. Horrible effort of the imagination! What evil chance had made him offer his services to this young English lord and dragged him into assisting at a duel which could be but a farce—worse than a farce, a murder? He would have given aloe plantation, and was trembling in every limb from the speed of her descent.

The cloud on the Sicilian's face grew black as night.

"This is no sight for you to look upon!" he cried, between his teeth. "You will not save your lover by waiting. You had better go, or I will kill him before your eyes!"

She walked calmly between them, and looked from one to the other. "Lord St. Maurice, I need not ask you, I know! This duel is not of your seeking?"

"It is not!" he answered, lowering his sword. "This fellow insulted me, and I punished him publicly in the restaurant of the Hotel de l'Europe last night. In my opinion, that squared matters, but he demanded satisfaction, and from his point of view, I suppose he has a right to it. I am quite ready to give it to him."

The seconds had fallen back. They three were alone. She went up to the Sicilian and laid her hand upon his arm.

"Leonardo, we have been friends, have we not? Why should you seek to do that which will make us enemies for ever? I have broken no faith with you; I never gave you one word of hope. I never loved you; I never could have loved you! Why should you seek to murder the man whom I do love, and make me miserable for ever?"

His face was ghastly, but he showed no sign of being moved by her words.

"Bah! You talk as you feel—just now!" he said quickly. "I tell you that I do not believe one word. If he had not come between us, you would have been mine some day. Love like mine would have conquered in the end. Away! away," he cried, pushing her back in growing excitement, and stamping on the ground with his feet. "The sight of you only maddens me, and nerves my arm to kill! Though you beg on your knees for his life, that man shall die!"

"I shall not beg upon my knees," she answered proudly. "Yet, Leonardo, for your own sake, for the sake of your own happiness, I bid you once more consider. You would stain your own hand with the blood of the man who is more to me than you can ever be. Is this what you call love? Leonardo, beware! I am not a woman to be lightly robbed of what is dear to me. Put up your sword, or you will repent it to your dying day."

The Sicilian was unmoved. The

TO PIONEER FATHERS

(Dedicated to My Father)
Sunset on western plains,
And shadows of the cross
Keep watch o'er sleeping pioneers,
And mutely speak our loss.

One by one they're passing on,
And in the autumn-tide
Of life, content, they hear the call
And cross the Great Divide.

For us they've built, and those unborn,
With brain, with heart, with brawn
But all in vain, if those they leave—
Pass not their virtues on.

Custodians we, of their faiths, their dreams;
"Their torch, we'll bear it high";
We'll pass unstained, their high ideals,
Their light, it shall not die.

O Father mine, you were so wise,
So tender, loyal, true;
Honest and big as the West you loved—
Those of your blood, may they be as you.

To your loved ones a heritage greater than wealth—
Your gold—twas riches of heart, mind and soul.
Traditions of honor, of high moral worth—
You gave of yourself to your friends untold.

Salt of the earth, you staunch pioneers,
Your memories we'll reverence on through the years,
So following your light on into the West,
In our life's sunset bring you, the fruits of your quest.

Baptist Young People Banquet Here Wednesday

Bristling wit, excellent music and snappy after-dinner speeches made the banquet of the Baptist young people Wednesday evening the delightful occasion that it was. About one hundred seventy-five banqueters were present, with the deacons of the Baptist Church as the honor guests.

Musical features consisting of solos and quartettes, illustrated songs, and orchestral numbers entertained the group delightfully, and the readings of Miss Thelma Cook and Miss Rebecca Thayer were received enthusiastically.

After dinner several interesting talks on the general theme of "Wise Investments" were made by students. The inspirational talk of the evening was given by W. E. Lockhart on the subject of "Man's Dual Nature," with special emphasis on the intellectual and spiritual.

The banquet was served by the W. M. S. of the church in the College Cafeteria and the young people express their appreciation to Dr. Hill and Mrs. A. W. Hamill for the use of the building.

Department of Health Makes Study of Eye Disease Causes

The State Department of Health is gratified over the wide-spread interest taken in the State in the lectures given by Miss Mildred Smith upon the prevention of blindness, according to Dr. J. M. Anderson, state health officer. Miss Smith came from the National Society in charge of this work and her talks have done much to convince Texans of the needless suffering and expense that is caused by blindness and how much of it might be averted. The U. S. Public Health Service has also during this month sent out radio talks that have impressed upon the people the importance of guarding the eyes.

In certain areas, trachoma is about to become an almost unknown ailment as the result of practical eradication work done in these areas within recent years. This description of the disease is quoted from the broadcasting from the Surgeon General of the U. S. Public Health Service.

"Trachoma is not 'catching' in the same way as are measles or mumps, but it is frequently due to some of the material from a 'sore eye' getting into a healthy eye. This can occur in many ways, such as by the use of common wash basins, handkerchiefs, bedclothes, or towels. The use of the same towel by more than one person is one of the easiest ways to convey the infection, and many cases of 'granulated eyelids' among the mountain people are probably caused by this common family towel.

"Children at school may also convey the disease to others by exchanging or using the same pencils, slates, and cloths, or in playing games by blindfolding with cloths, fingers, etc. As the disease feels like a cinder in the eye, a friend may try to remove it and neglect to wash his hands before rubbing his own eyes. In fact, the disease can be contracted in any manner which serves as a means of conveying infected discharges from a diseased to a healthy eye.

"The inner surface of the eyelids becomes rough, somewhat like sandpaper, and irritates the eyeball during every wink of the eye, often described as 'cutting'.

"While the redness, pain, and discharges may cease for a time, the disease is almost sure to return unless treated, each attack damaging the eye more and more. Early treatment of trachoma thus becomes necessary, and it should be continued until the disease is cured.

"It is the duty of every man, woman and child to do all he or she can to prevent the spread of trachoma. Every case of the disease could have been prevented. Every case occurring in a child is the fault of somebody. The following are some of the things that people should do to avoid infection:

1. Keep in good physical condition.
2. Have large windows in the home, which will admit plenty of fresh air and sunshine.
3. Sleep with windows open even in winter, and keep the room well aired where you live and study.
4. Do not use the common family towel, especially in homes where there are cases of trachoma.
5. Each member of the family should have an individual towel and handkerchief and not permit anybody else to use them.
6. Always make sure that the washbasin is clean before using it.
7. Do not sleep with persons who have "sore eyes" nor use bedclothes that have been used by them.
8. Do not wear the clothing of persons who have "sore eyes" nor use their eating utensils without previous cleaning.
9. Boil the handkerchiefs, etc., of persons having "sore eyes" and do not touch their faces.
10. Advise persons with sore eyes to seek the advice of a competent physician.

A pretty accessory for the bedroom is the gown bag which looks like some luscious flower in full bloom and may be hung on the wall or on the foot of the bed.

Two circles of colored straw are used for centerpieces and a puff of harmonizing taffeta gathered around them to form a circular bag. A wreath of ribbon flowers is applied on the front circle of straw, and a silken cord used for hanging.

1925 BRIDGE CLUB

The 1925 Bridge Club was delightfully entertained Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. R. E. Ball. Her lovely home was attractively decorated with bowls of carnations and sweet peas.

Time passed swiftly while bridge was enjoyed at five tables. The merriment subsided, however, as wicker waiters loaded with delicious refreshments were passed. Tiny George Washington busts were used for favors. The following were present: Mesdames Boutwell, Lybrand, Newberry, Jack Whittington, Murray, Moore, Bishir, Farlow, Guber, Harter, Daugherty, Hicks, Prichard, Dewey Foster, Newlin, Eastwood, Knighton, Joe Gamble, George Johnson, and Warren.

THE EAGLE'S TALE

VOLUME NO. 3

CANYON, TEXAS, February 28, 1929.

NUMBER 21

Exes, Past and Present

Robert McGee, now secretary to the division superintendent of the Santa Fe railroad at Amarillo, graduated from Canyon High School in 1922. He attended W. T. two years and continued his work in Trenton, N. J., and Columbia University.

AGAIN THE FARMER IS THE VICTIM

Among influences at work against a high protective tariff, said the President of the American Tariff League last year, was the American farmer.

Now we see how well the tariff forces are opposing those whose beliefs are contrary to their own. Until a few months ago it seemed that any revision of tariff, save in the case of farm products would be downward.

But by using the Hoover argument that a higher tariff is the foundation of farm relief, the protectionists spread the word that sweeping upward revisions are necessary all along the line to save American industry from foreign competition.

And so manufacturing chemists asked for increases in the chemical schedule ranging from 30 to 100 per cent. Other industries are sure to be heard from.

The pretext of helping the farmer, it seems, is being employed to get a general boost on manufactured products—and the farmer will have to pay his share of the cost, as always.

He: "May I occupy a part of your hammock tonight?"

She (sweetly): "You may occupy all of it. Pete and I are going to a dance."

Old Fiddlers' Contest To Be Sponsored By Junior High Class

Tonight in the High School auditorium at seven-thirty there will be a Fiddlers' Contest which is sponsored by the junior class. The winner from this contest, which is a county one, goes to the district meet at Amarillo at a later date. The entertainment will be very enjoyable, and everyone's presence will be appreciated by the juniors.

SPRING FOOTBALL

Coach Spann stated recently that spring football would be postponed indefinitely on account of "lack of interest on the boys' part and the weather."

"The Eagles are tired after their long and strenuous siege of basketball. A long rest will do them good."

However, when spring football is started, several games will be arranged.

BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

The notorious Canyon Eagles went down in the first game of the tournament before the powerful Perryton team who later became the District One champions for 1929.

The lack of the Eagles' teamwork made easy a job that should have been hard for Perryton. The score was 31 to 15.

THEFT OF BEANS BRINGS LIFE TERM

SOMEBODY CARES

By Opal Shuman
Somebody thinks you're fine and true;
Somebody feels you're sure to win;
Somebody knows whatever you do is bound to be right; that if you begin
A task, you will somehow see it through;
Somebody knows you will pass each test;
Somebody'd stake her life that you Of all the folks in the world, are best.

Somebody thinks of you each day,
Somebody prays for you at night;
Laughs like a child when you are gay,
And is sad when your world is a bit less bright.

Somebody builds her life on yours,
Somebody steers her course by you,
Bends to the storm when your skies are dark,
And is safe when your skies are smiling blue.

Deeply your day-dreams hide from sight,
But in all your dreaming somebody shares,
Somebody knows what foes you fight
And your secret victories. Somebody cares.
And just because there's somebody true
When the world forgets you in your despair,
There's nothing too hard for you to do
And nothing too great for you to dare!

For how can you bring her anything else
When she asks for the moon, than at least a star?
And how can you face her, and be too far
Below the man that she thinks you are?
If somebody didn't care, we'd give less than our best, be less than true.
You can thank the Fates, each day that you live,
That somebody thinks the world of you.

CANYON VS. VEGA, THURSDAY
Oh Boy! Canyon surely did miss a treat Thursday by not being present to see Canyon and Vega clash. Thursday night at eight o'clock the Canyon girls' team played Vega bringing home the score of 19 to 13. At first the girls heard that Vega had a small team, but "Whoopie!" they soon changed their minds after seeing Vega's forward, etc.

Folks! Canyon has a wonderful girls' team this year and has won many games so far. Gladys Young, Bill Brooks, and Roberts are excellent forwards and after seeing Polly Wilson and Greenfield play at Vega you know they're good, and with Whitley and McGehee, Canyon has a team that she should be proud of. Tuesday night at the high school gymnasium, the Canyon girls will play with Vega again. Let's everyone come.

The meanest man in the world is the warden who put a tack in the electric chair.

Seniors Plan Trip to Carlsbad Cavern; Senior Cards Arrive

The president called a meeting of the senior class for the purpose of distributing the cards and of discussing the Junior-Senior Banquet. The president also made a suggestion which interested the class very much. If the boys of the class can get cars enough, the senior class would like to go to the Carlsbad Cavern on "Senior Day."

The Junior and Senior classes have decided to have the class banquet March 22.

The halls were covered with small bits of paper after the senior class meeting. All the members of the class were trading cards and almost all of the high school students wanted one of every senior's cards.

Every boy and girl in the senior class that wants to go to Carlsbad try to get a car, so that no one will be disappointed.

KITCHEN ART

No, we are not referring to the culinary art. "Kitchen Art" is just what we mean—and there is such a thing.

At least so thinks the Art Alliance of America, which has announced a competition for designs to glorify that ancient and honorable institution internationally known as the kitchen sink.

This movement deserves the support of everyone.

Now we know the secret behind the domestic unrest of recent years. The ugly sinks are responsible. The cast iron sink has kept more women out of their homes than the movies, jazz music and automobiles all rolled into one, according to some experts.

The white enameled sink of modern days is just as bad. It's too clean to make dirty—and so many housewives have preferred not to use it, just to look at it.

The ideal would be a kitchen sink both artistic and adapted to many uses. Not too ugly to look at, not too pretty to use.

May we suggest a kitchen sink with the faucets fashioned on a sort of fountain-of-youth plan, with little cupids chasing themselves over the exterior?

No doubt young wives and daughters would be attracted to it irresistibly. All hail the future saviors of the American home who will design the best kitchen sink.

$1 FINE FOR EACH FISH

New York—Louis Kostowsky told a fish story to the judge to explain his failure to stop his auto on signal. He said he was in a rush to bring fish he had caught home to his wife. The magistrate fined him $1 apiece for the three fish he had caught.

Colored Rookie: "I'd like to have a new pair of shoes, suh."

My Experience as a Missionary

The following is one of many interesting stories written by members of the seventh grade spelling class. After a review of eighty words the class was asked to incorporate at least twenty of the words into a connected story. The capitalized words are the ones this pupil selected from the list:

After graduating from college I RESOLVED to DEVOTE my time as a foreign MISSIONARY. I had been saving my small INCOME until it had DEVELOPED into five hundred dollars.

I received word that a RELATIVE of mine, who was SUPERINTENDENT of the flying field at San Francisco, had died and after a heated ARGUMENT I was SUMMONED before COURT and declared SOLE HEIR to a large fifteen-passenger AEROPLANE and a huge ESTATE.

I seized my OPPORTUNITY and began to get together all of the MATERIAL that I would need to go on a mission.

I was assigned to make a CIRCUIT of the TERRITORY south of the Congo Basin, which was the PROPERTY of the Spanish EMPIRE.

Before my departure, the pep SQUAD girls gave the football team, of which I was a member, a BANQUET to celebrate the 5th time that we had won over our OPPONENT.

After the banquet was over, I engaged nine men, who were SKILLFUL in VARIOUS arts, to go with me. One of the men was a PHYSICIAN, another was a member of the SENATE, while one was a lover of SCIENCE. I then got a MODEST young man that was an experienced AVIATOR.

It was early in the spring when we made our DEPARTURE into this unknown region but with this enormous PLANE we felt much safer. In order to BALANCE the machine we shifted the PROVISIONS to the back of the plane and we went to the front of it.

The first day we made fair progress, it was then that I saw my first SUBMARINE.

On the second day we reached the Congo Basin. We alighted about twenty miles south of this basin. Oh how good it felt to be back to solid ground!

We knew that a village with a POPULATION of about 200 was not far from where we had alighted. We tied our plane STATIONARY with a COIL of CABLE and started on our foot.

The people here were very INTELLIGENT and were pleased greatly by the colored beads and mirrors that we threw among them.

We then made our ENTRANCE into the king's palace, but he had the CATARRH and could not talk. I fixed up some medicine and gave

Seniors Challenge Juniors to Basketball Next Week

Listen classes! next week there is surely going to be some excitement. Everyone knows what fun competition is between classes, and since class fights are prohibited, the best way to show your class colors off is to win in the games. Just imagine your class as having the best teams in Canyon Hi.

Both girls and boys will play. There will be drawing for games as is done at tournaments. Begin now to make your class team the best.

S O S ONLY SIGNAL

Washington.—It has been explained that "S O S" has no meaning in itself, but the letters were adopted in 1912 because the combination of dots and dashes was so simple that even the most inexperienced radio operator would have little difficulty in detecting it. Previously, the distress call had been "C D Q." Naval Communications have been deluged by letters asking the meaning of "S. O. S."

OLDEST TWINS

Woodville, O.—Henry and William Bruns, believed to be the oldest twins in America, celebrated their 95th birthday anniversary. In Fremont, O., John and Frank Wurzel 60, twins, also celebrated their birthday.

"Your dealer has hired me to collect this bill from you."

"You are to be congratulated on obtaining a permanent position."

him and the old man wanted some more so I gave him some molasses and SATISFIED him.

Our attention was drawn to the center of the village by a fight. We arrived on the SCENE and learned that the OUTRAGE was caused by one savage who had sent a CHALLENGE to another to fight till death. The larger had his smaller VICTIM around the throat and the poor fellow was about to PERISH. The king ordered them to be beheaded at sundown.

I stayed at this village for three years and then returned to America with a thousand SPECIES of plants and a third as many animals.

needed flesh—to make the blood richer—take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. By restoring the normal action of the stomach and other deranged organs and functions, it builds the flesh up to a safe and healthy standard—promptly, pleasantly and naturally. The weak, emaciated, thin, pale and puny, are made strong, plump, round, rosy and robust, also pimples and blotches are driven away. All druggists.

More Charm—no blemishes now

UNDERNEATH a clear, smooth skin, healthy tissues—full of rich, red blood—thrive. No worry about pimples now. Instead there is a certain satisfaction that gives confidence.

All this because rich, red blood is Nature's way of building and sustaining the body.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there can be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

You know a clear skin comes from within. Correct the cause—through the blood—and pimples, boils, eczema and that sallow complexion will disappear.

Thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking a few bottles of S.S.S.—Nature's own tonic for restoring the appetite—building strength—and clearing the body of so-called skin troubles.

of S.S.S. It cleared my face and back. I think S.S.S. is wonderful. I have told many friends about S.S.S., and they are getting as much benefit as I did."—Miss Ruth Gahm, 1134 Elden Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.

When the firemen call, dressed for action, it is too late to think of insurance. The loss may be large—or the loss may be small—but a loss nevertheless unless you have your home and personal property well insured. Winter is the season of the year when fire losses are greatest. Putting off taking out a fire insurance policy is a gamble which no one can afford. Let us explain the economy which may be enjoyed in various kinds of policies.

CONOCO-ETHYL is weatherproof

Conoco Ethyl Gasoline performs at its best twelve months out of every year. It knows no seasons.

It gives the same quick start in February as it does in May—and it follows through by delivering steady, sustained, "knockless" power against the piston heads.

That's important! It's not hard to find a motor fuel that will start easily. Your chief concern should be in what it does after starting.

Being a combination of Conoco, the Triple-Test Gasoline, and Ethyl Brand of Anti-Knock Compound developed by General Motors, Conoco Ethyl is the ideal motor fuel. You'll feel the difference in the operation of your car the very second you switch to Conoco Ethyl.

So why not join the thousands of contented Conoco Ethyl users? Why not get out of your car all of the power which its designers put into it?

Start the habit today by drawing up to a Conoco Ethyl Pump—at service stations and garages.

CAPITOL SENTIMENT

—AS REPORTED—

By United Press

By Gordon K. Shearer
United Press Staff Correspondent
Austin, Texas, Feb. 27.—(United Press)—The 41st legislature went into the closing two weeks of its regular session with only one outstanding law in effect—the marriage license publicity act.

Aimed at runaway and whiskey marriages, the bill requires three days notice before a marriage license can be issued. It requires beside that the man shall present a hygienic certificate of freedom from specified diseases.

It becomes effective in June. The exact day will depend on when the session ends. It will be 90 days after adjournment.

The question of adjournment and special session dates is causing much speculation. To an inquirer who suggested to the Governor he would like to know when the special session would be called, the Governor replied: "I would like to know, too."

A merry fight through the closing days of the regular session is in prospect. The home stretch was entered with the House behind a plan to centralize the prisons on land already owned, and the Senate behind a plan to relocate.

That they should be brought together seemed doubtful. House and Senate were apart also on handling of University of Texas oil and gas lands. The Senate was on record for turning them over to the University Regents and the House voted to turn them over to the Land Commissioner and two regents "not interested in oil."

The Senate had engrossed the resolution calling for submission of a road bond issue but the House had refused, up to this week, to act upon it.

Both had agreed to submit the proposal to have a Supreme Court of nine members and to submit a salary raise for the Governor. But they are apart on the Governor's salary details. The House suggested $10,000 and the Senate $12,000. An agreement on the amount will need only a little trading. They are far apart, however, on when the amendment should be voted upon.

House members led by Rep. A. C. Petsch of Fredericksburg, want it submitted along with the Supreme Court amendment. The Senate resolution submits it to a vote on the same day as the 1930 July primary. Petsch says that to submit it during the heat of a political campaign will be hurtful.

Eyes already are turning toward that campaign, Barry Miller, of Dallas, was informally announced for Governor when the Senate lauded him last Saturday and members volunteered to support him. Tom Love, also a Dallas resident, has announced that the present session's election legislation apparently is a mandate for him to run.

The heads of two former speakers of the House of Representatives are also sticking above the horizon of those who are looking for candidates. Both bear the name of the South's revered leader. One is Robert Lee Bobbitt, of Laredo, and the other Lee Satterwhite, of Odessa.

Whether the boom for R. S. Sterling, of Houston, will be revived seems to depend largely on whether the pulmotor is successful in reviving the state road bond issue which Sterling advocated.

Mr. Sterling's testimony and the complete exoneration of the highway department in the legislative committee probe greatly strengthened his position and revealed efficiency in the department rather than inefficiency.

Rep. Elwin Gerron, of Waxahachie, presenter of the charges, frankly stated so. Gerron's frank statement that he considered the charges without good foundation and his cheerful congratulation to the highway department made numerous friends for the "baby member" of the House.

The Committee, after going into a huddle like a football team, decided not to ask Gerron to reveal the source of the information on which charges were presented. Capitol rumors trace some of them to persons who also made charges that resulted in investigation of the highway commission under Miriam Ferguson's administration.

For the first time in its history the State Land Office was kept open on Washington's birthday this year. This was to enable the auditors hired by the state at so much per day to work instead of remaining idle at the state expense. The evil of local legislation masking as general legislation, got a striking example last week. Then the legislature discovered that a bill of some sort was passed by the last legislature, signed innocently by the Governor, and went into effect before county commissioners of Hansford county, which was affected, knew of the measure. The bill reduced the vote necessary to remove the county seat in a county of that size from two-thirds to a majority. Newspaper accounts of the Governor signing the bill gave many of the people first notice.

A local bill must have local notice given by publication 30 days before it is acted upon by the Legislature. The publication is intended to give the people a chance to protest to their representative if they object. When the bill is disguised as a general bill, they have no such notice.

This disguise is put on by making the bill apply to all counties, cities, districts or offices, or whatever is affected, within limits that exclude all but one. One bill limited its effect to all cities with a population between 2,000 and 2,010, as shown by the 1920 census. The representatives boldly announce them as of only local application but so far no member has had the hardihood to demand that they be held up for local notification by publication.

its county seat location on March 6. Perhaps the notoriety that will be attached to the case will arouse the public to action against such "local application" bills. A repealing act to restore the required vote of two-thirds was before the legislature this week.

Fastest action on any bill of the present session was taken on a Rusk county school supervisor bill offered by Rep. J. B. Snelgrove. Within 24 hours from the time he offered the bill it had passed both houses and had been finally passed. The shortest bill is a ten word act by Senator Wirtz, a measure to make University bonds tax free.

An old timer is one who can remember when hitching posts were not called "mooring masts." A New York poker club has barred married men from membership. They know how to bluff too well.
